XCM MOUNTAIN BIKE RACER

I am a dedicated endurance mountain bike racer, consistently finishing at the front of my age group category in some of the most challenging races. My passion for pushing limits and competing at the highest level has driven me to take on some of the toughest endurance events in the sport.

In 2025, I'm tackling my biggest challenge yet—racing Leadville 100 and Breck Epic back-to-back, a notorious big single day followed by one of the most grueling mountain bike stage races in the U.S. I'm not just competing; I'm documenting the entire journey through race recaps, behind-the-scenes content, and in-depth storytelling.

With a growing presence in the endurance racing community, I'm committed to sharing the highs and lows of training, racing, and the mental toughness it takes to succeed. I aim to bring visibility to brands that align with my racing lifestyle and inspire other athletes along the way.

Let's build something great together!
